

- antlr generates java classes from the grammar of the datascript description
- jet generates java classes from the java-emitter-templates
- javac compiles all source code
- jar generates the datascript runtime package from the compiled java classes

- java runs the datascript tools and generates new java classes from a datascript script
- javac compiles all source code
- junit runs the test units